

THE MEXICAN MIGRATION FIELD RESEARCH PROGRAM 2016-17

EDUCATION TRACK*

The MMFRP is a unique opportunity for undergraduate and graduate students who want an in-depth, hands-on research experience focused on international migration. Students involved in MMFRP consistently report that their participation in this program is life-changing, as they gain an understanding of the migration experience that could never have been obtained in a typical classroom environment.

What will you get out of this program?

- Course credit for community-based field research experience in Baja California, Mexico
- Experience working with a multidisciplinary research team from the U.S. and Mexico
- Preparation for graduate school and for careers in global and public health, non-governmental organizations, government, law and medicine

The MMFRP course offering below completes the requirements for the Minor in International Migration Studies when taken with one lower-division and one upper-division course.

LATI-122A (fall – 4 units): Teaches research methods used by social scientists

LATI-122B (winter – 12 units): Offers fieldwork experience focused on migration and education

LATI-122C (spring – 4 units): Focuses on analysis of primary data and preparation of publications

To apply, please email a 250 statement explaining your interest in the course and your CV to mfloca@ucsd.edu by June 10th